

Birthday Cruise!

In the last issue, we mentioned a potential 80th Birthday Cruise out of Tampa's terminal. Well, a lot of classmates thought that was a good idea and let us know they were interested. Some had previously considered a cruise with a few close classmates.

Fortunately, our class has connections with a travel agent through our classmate, Sally Cook Vazquez. She and her husband owned Bowen Travel for many years and recently sold it. The staff of Bowen Travelworld is very helpful and has stepped forward to help us get lined up with a group cruise in April 2016.

The group tour agent is Edith Salter and she is skilled in arranging the kind of group cruise we want. She has given us a schedule of costs and it is included later in this newsletter.

We need to consider this opportunity now, and act. Delay could result in "missing the boat", as this cruise out of Tampa is the last 4-day cruise of the 2016 Florida winter cruise season for Royal Caribbean. Edith is already booking another group on the same ship.

The itinerary involves two days at sea, out of Tampa, a day at Cozumel, Mexico and one+ days at sea back to Tampa. There are some options for shore tours in Cozumel, but that would be on an individual, not a group, basis. Once you have been booked on the cruise, you can see what tours are available in Cozumel via the cruise ship. Actually, walking around the town for the day and shopping are fun.

A little-known tour in Cozumel is Kaokao Chocolates. This is such a well-kept secret that even some local van drivers do not know about it. The proprietor is of Mayan descent (American wife) and conducts tours of the business for small groups – a reservation ($$) is needed for up to about 16 people. Each person on the tour gets to grind cocoa beans into a chocolate paste and then into a patty, as a souvenir. Everything at the factory is chocolate – even the soap in the restrooms.

If we get 16 guests, and 8 cabins, Royal Caribbean will give us a private party, with adult beverages. Hopefully, we can get more cruisers than that and maybe have two private parties! ☺

The ship is the Brilliance of the Seas, and it has a crew of 848. It is not one of those megaships where you can get lost trying to find the dining room.

Brilliance of the Seas

There are stateroom options for solo, double, triple and quadruple occupancy, so you can cruise with pals or keep to yourself.

The prices the Bowen Travelworld has obtained for our class are discounted from the on-line prices at the Royal Caribbean website. There is no fee for Bowen’s services, as the cruise line provides that for Bowen acting as their agent. That is, we get to have our arrangements handled personally for us at a cost reduced from what we would have to pay for dealing directly with Royal Caribbean.

Update on a Western Classmate

Bev Furman Praschan and her husband Neil moved to Mesa, Arizona 28 years ago. They were married in November of the year we graduated from high school and have two daughters and a son. They also have seven grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Neil had a career with General Motors at their test track/proving grounds and Bev was mostly a homemaker with some office work.

In retirement, they enjoy the grandchildren and their offspring. Both Bev and Neil are involved in their church’s choir, worship services and missions.

Bev and Neil are shown at a special occasion in January, 2012

Roy Kaple sent us this clipping from the Times, dated April 3, 1951. The print is small, but can you see yourself in the picture?

Our thanks go to Joyce Lindsay Sperry, Lucy Jacobus Bean and an anonymous classmate for generously donating to the class treasury for expenses.
